About Eddie Aikau

“EDDIE WOULD GO” These few words have carried the story of Eddie Aikau around the world. Eddie Aikau was a humble, quiet person with a reputation for courage. The saying, “Actions speak louder than words” is very much a part of his story.

One of the greatest Hawaiian surfers who ever lived, he was one of the few surfers who rode “mountains”, the huge winter waves at Waimea Bay on the North Shore of Oahu. Eddie surfed with a passion and determination possessed by only a select group of professional athletes—those who become one with the ocean and an extension of its power. Surrounded with the ocean, he simply enjoyed the challenges it offered. For Eddie, the ocean was a spiritual place. He met its challenges with the utmost respect.

His skills as a big wave surfer and his love of the ocean gave him the determination to become one of the first City and County lifeguards on the North Shore of Oahu. Eddie became the guardian of Waimea Bay and continued to surf some of the biggest waves in the world. He took on the responsibility, not only of helping to make the beaches safer, but of willingly sharing his knowledge of the ocean with visitors to Hawaii, so they could enjoy the beautiful beaches and go home safely to their family and friends. Eddie understood the importance of being trained and ready to make a rescue at any time. He had to communicate and cooperate with others who helped during these rescues. When the ocean threatened the life of anyone near him, whether he was on duty or not, Eddie would risk his life without hesitation to save anyone in danger and he always showed compassion. In 1971, he was awarded the highest honor as the Honolulu City & County Lifeguard of the Year. Eddie's heroics as a lifeguard became legendary and proved even then that "Eddie Would Go".

But foremost in Eddie's heart was his family. He loved his "Ohana" and upheld the Aikau family name with integrity and honor. The values that he was taught by his mother and father were evident in everything he did. He was very proud of his Hawaiian heritage, preserving his ancestry and culture was very important to him.

One of Eddie's dreams was to sail on the Hokule`a, an 8 ton, 62 feet-long, double-hull Polynesian voyaging canoe. To Eddie, the Hokule`a was a true symbol of his Hawaiian heritage and the future — the heart and the soul of Hawaii. Eddie was a surfer, not an experienced sailor, but he was determined to become a member of the crew. With his passion and dedication, he achieved his dream and was selected to be a crew member for the 1978 voyage to Tahiti.

On March 16, 1978, the Hokule`a set sail with Eddie on board. Late that night the double-hull canoe capsized in rough weather. After many hours spent clinging to the overturned canoe in the stormy seas, it seemed that no one would be rescued. It was natural that Eddie would offer to go for help. So, Eddie went! He paddled away on his surfboard, but was never seen again. The rest of the crew was rescued soon after. It is Eddie's spirit filling the sails of the Hokule`a today as he guides her every voyage.

Eddie Aikau was a legendary big wave surfer, a heroic lifeguard, who made the ultimate sacrifice for his fellow crew members on the 1978 voyage of the Hokule`a. His legacy is not to live solely for yourself, but to help each other and to be of service. He truly embodied the Aloha Spirit.

2020 Eddie Would Go Essay Contest

FOR THE STUDENT: TIPS AND REMINDERS FOR WRITING YOUR ESSAY

Before you write, do some research. Possible resources include:

- Read the book, “Eddie Would Go” by Stuart Coleman (found in St of HI public libraries).
- View the ESPN documentary, “Hawaiian: The Legend of Eddie Aikau” Teachers or parents may email the Foundation & we will arrange to lend a copy of the documentary to be shown to the students, subject to availability of supplies. Email the Foundation at: info@eddieaikaufoundation.org to make the arrangements. This DVD is also available for purchase on Amazon, search under the title of the documentary.
- Search the internet e.g., newspaper articles in The Honolulu Star Advertiser, various other magazines and media resources.
- Talk with someone who knew Eddie Aikau. Members of the Aikau Ohana are willing to speak with interested students about Eddie’s life. Email them to make arrangements: info@eddieaikaufoundation.org
- Visit the Eddie Aikau Foundation website: www.eddieaikaufoundation.org
- Visit the Polynesian Voyaging Society website:
<http://www.hokulea.com/voyages/our-story/>
- Visit the Quiksilver website and learn about the history of the QS Big Wave Invitational In Memory of Eddie Aikau. <https://quiksilver.com/surf/events/eddie-aikau/history.html>
- Visit the current website of “THE EDDIE” Big Wave Invitational, now managed by the Aikau Family: <https://www.theeddieaikau.com/>

When you write:

- Introduce yourself and your thoughts to the reader. Use an appropriate title that states your point of view to be expressed in the essay.
- Create an original piece of writing that takes the reader from your title, to the introduction, through the body of your essay, and finally to the conclusion, in a clear, concise manner.
- Develop a topic you can focus on which will deliver your ideas to the reader clearly and convincingly.
- Finish your essay well ahead of time so you can take a day or two to read it again for a final review. Read it aloud to yourself or an adult to decide if changes are needed.

Check that you’ve met all of the contest requirements:

- The essay must be the student’s OWN work.
- The essay should have a TITLE that captures the idea of the essay.
- The essay must NOT reveal the Student’s Name or School anywhere on, or within the essay.
- The essay should be a MAXIMUM of 1000 words in length.
- The essay must be typewritten, double-spaced, and in 12-point font size.
- Two (2) hard copies of the essay must be submitted. The essay must also be available as an MS Word document.
- The essay answers the following Prompt:
